Most of the honorary degrees have been bestowed and the gentle rain of honors is over, for another season.

Do undergraduate and graduate students who have won their degrees a credit at a time resent the case with which successful men garner them each June, without ever cracking a book?

Probably not. For here is the significant thing about honorary degrees. Relatively few of them are planted in barren soil. They fall with convincing regularity on men who amount to something, which is proper.

They produce, with the same convincing regularity, monetary and moral support for the institutions which distribute them. That does not include the excellent commencement addresses which their grateful recipients deliver in partial repayment.

The value of those thoughtful, and at least flowery, speeches alone must more than cover the overhead for this American custom. No one gets anything worthwhile for nothing, not even the right to be called "doctor."

WARMING UP

Independence day still falls on July 4. The warm-up period still begins before the middle of June.

Hospitals are looking to their supplies of anti-tetanus serum. Ordinarily calm persons are clenching their teeth and trying not to notice an occasional firecracker—precursor of an intensive bombardment later on.

The other day in Akron, when his 10 year old son was burned by an exploding firecracker, William Turner said he hoped the accident would be a warning to other children who celebrate the Glorious Fourth prematurely.

There's much to be said for that father's philosophic attitude, but sometime the public will recognize that explosives and children make a bad combination. The children are essential; the explosives aren't. Therefore, the explosives must go. The order of their going is brought a little nearer each year by the eagerness of dealers to get them on sale, not only in time for celebrating Independence day, but in time to make at least half of June hideous with noise and fateful with dangerous burns.

FUN IN THE MAKING

When President Roosevelt was told that Sen. Copeland might be Tammany Hall's candidate for mayor of New York, he said "Ha" three times—like this: "ha, ha, ha!"

When Tammany leaders heard what the President had said about their man they said "Ohhh," all together.

There's fun in the making in New York. If there weren't so many other things to keep track of, it would be a major attraction.

Mayor LaGuardia, who still calls himself a Republican but who is part of the advance guard of the labor party which has congealed in New York, has the Roosevelt's administration's blessing. It will take a mighty good rouser to beat him in the kind of rough and tumble campaign he will wage for reelection.

It's Tammany Hall's job to find such a man. That's only the half of it. Unless Tammany finds a man acceptable to Jim Farley and the President, they will support LaGuardia. That's what the laugh at Sen. Copeland meant. Tammany doesn't need to think it can run a moderate against LaGuardia without losing the support of the federal government.

Sen. Wagner, whose labor relations bill has been diminishing the causes of labor disputes something like gasoline diminishes a fire, is being mentioned as an acceptable substitute. This should be worth watching.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, June 13

Sunday's horoscope, judging by the prevailing lunar directions, is a rather disconcerting one, with good auguries for those in employment or those aspiring to favors, preferment or promotion. But there are omens of impetuosity, recklessness, violent and wayward conduct, and also portents of litigation, misrepresentation, fraud, scandal and other undesirable adventures.

Those whose birthday it is may have a rather satisfactory year if in employment or in those places where superiors or those in authority may confer favors or marks of dignity or honors. Otherwise, there is a menace of fraud, misrepresentation, slander and litigation.

A child born on this day may be clever, quick, bold and impetuous, with good prospects of success if it will but control its passionate, quarrelsome and rash tendencies. It should have very early training and discipline to inculcate principles of self-control.

For Monday, June 14

Monday's astrological forecast is a notable and happy one, with affairs of a sudden, precipitate and adventurous nature descending probably with the force of a whirlwind. It may have a determining and radical influence on the future fortunes, felicity and destiny, and may largely concern the emotional, romantic or home life. Social, domestic and affectional interests predominate, and these have strange and unexpected denouements, with much of novelty. Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of much promise and progress as well as pleasure. This may be suddenly precipitated, with unforeseen change, adventure or romance accentuating the promise of great benefit and happiness. Social, domestic, artistic, also scientific adventures, are paramount, with courtship, romance or strange influences or singular experiences lending high color to the life and affecting the future happiness and welfare.

A child born on this day may be gifted, creative in the arts and sciences, adventurous and romantic, with the love of beauty and the unexplored in nature acutely influencing its life and career. It should attain high station through these talents, and also by its gracious, kindly and lovable qualities. It may marry young and travel far from its birthplace.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, June 12—This is the day I usually just sit at the typewriter—and let myself go. A thought pops up and I swing at it. Hoping to whang one into the bleachers—but usually it's a pop fly to infield. It has been a long time since such a crack reporter and interviewer as Alva Johnston has come along.

He is a young fellow and got his newspaper ground-work in Sacramento. He describes a subject perfectly by reporting the anecdotes of his friends—the Sam Goldwyn pastel for instance. The good interviewer should never pull out a pad and pencil.

Such questioners as Frank Ward, O'Malley, Ed Hill, Richard Harding, Davis and Irvin Cobb never did. If they should, the interviewed immediately would become self-conscious and inarticulate. Herbert Swope was an ace interviewer in his reportorial days. He had a way of prodding big shots into a fury.

And before they knew it, they were spouting things they often regretted. I once tried that method on a visiting potentate. He strode with great clanking strides toward me, grew apoplectic red and shook his fist. He said much, but I was so scared I forgot what it was when I got to the office.

He came out of one of the great brownstone mansions on Fifth avenue the other late afternoon, a slight gentleman with a goatee, plainly dressed and walked with his nurse to a highboy limousine of ancient vintage—A New York stamp of family heritage. He was Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, last of the avenue's residential aristocrats. All the rest of the famous names—save Helen Gould, who clings to her town house a few blocks southward—have vanished. The famous Vanderbilt chateau at 58th street made way for a big dressmaking establishment. The Collis P. Huntington mansion is gone. And the Millionaire's Row on an upper reach of the avenue is now almost solidly lined with apartment houses. Park avenue has a number of magnificent private residences but they are gradually being absorbed and turned into hotel apartment living. Many reasons are advanced for abandonment of home for the modern apartment. But real estate men say there are only two—taxes, and the servant problem!

Alexander Woolcott has for many years been to a fellow I know the personification of the jingle "I do not like you, Dr. Fell; the reason why I cannot tell." The broadcaster has never met the fellow. Yet he so often irritates my friend. Even in the double lettering of his name. When Woolcott endorses a book my friend vows immediately not to read it, and when his wife, who enjoys Woolcott's radio talks, tunes in, he leaves the room. He is conscious Woolcott is one of our versatile litterateurs. He was brilliant enough as a dramatic critic and has turned out some of the better essays of our time. His radio following is large, constant. My friend thinks most of us have an Alexander Woolcott in our lives. It is the human mind indulging an unreasonable quirk, and cannot be explained. Just one of those things.

In a chop suey cellar in Chinatown the other night I was telling two visitors from midland how the quarter was subjected to the wildest exaggerations. Most opium dens, I blabbed on, were prop build-ups for tourists and the hop heads were painted up to look ghastly while they puffed durham. I made myself out quite the sneering sophisticate—all wise to city stuff. On our way to the car parked in Canal street, a cop was just giving the finishing touches to a patrol wagon loading. He explained there had just been a raid on a Chinatown tenement and $40,000 worth of drugs was found. All I could say was "Oh!" and keep my mouth shut on the ride uptown.

Slum squaor has an eerie tug for me. In every strange city I want to take a squint at the seamy side before seeing the historical points of interest. I have spent far more time in London's Soho and around the India Dock Road than in Piccadilly and Mayfair, and one of the most interesting streets to me is that alley-like aperture, rue de Lappe, filled with bals musettes, Apaches, grisettes and dark drinking dens. People of the slums express a calm and forbearance rarely achieved by a more finely spun civilization. They have mastered that most difficult of living arts—the art of knowing how to take it.

DIPHTHERIA

NOT SO Long ago I told you how the danger of diphtheria has been greatly reduced by the early vaccination or immunization of children.

Dr. Copeland

These results mark an amazing achievement. But we must not assume that all danger is passed and that diphtheria has definitely been conquered. The effort of public health authorities to give the protective "toxoid" or "toxin-antitoxin" to the youngsters before they enter school is the immediate problem. But it is important to make a further examination after a few years. This is done by means of the "Schick test," which shows whether or not the child is susceptible to diphtheria, or that the protective effect continues.

Simple Procedure

This is a simple procedure, causing little pain or discomfort. It determines whether the child possesses the necessary protection against the disease. It is usually applied six months after the last of the protective inoculations.

If the Schick test is "positive," it means that the child should receive a new series of inoculations. Unfortunately, many parents are neglectful about it. Too often they fail to have these tests made six months after the last inoculation and in many instances never have them. This is a pity, because every child who has had the preventive treatment were checked by the Schick test, and, if necessary, given another chance, it would not be long before diphtheria would disappear as a cause of death. Communities in which this method of control is not enforced live in great danger.

Please bear in mind that, in a certain proportion of treated children, protection does not last for life; for this reason there should be a checkup at intervals. Consult with your doctor about the importance of testing the children as to their susceptibility to this disease.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. E. L. R. Q.—Is a matter of irregularity in the heart beat of a child very serious? The heart seems to miss a beat at times. Could this be a symptom of nervousness?

A.—A heart condition in a child should have the most careful medical attention. Your doctor will advise you more definitely. Nervousness may be an accompanying factor.

A. P. C. Q.—What do you advise for hay fever? I am 22 years old and am continually run down from the effects of this disturbance.

A.—For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

AUSTIN, Tex.—College boys are still what they used to be. Three University of Texas undergraduates were fined when police found 13 assorted signs with an aggregate value of $75 adorning their room. One of the signs was a police "no parking" placard.

SYNOPSIS

Young Dr. Jonathan Kimber preferred to succeed on his own merits rather than take over the well established practice of his late father. So he goes to the little town of Riverport to take the place of old Dr. Alan Ballard, retired and now living in California. Evelina, his predecessor's meticulous old housekeeper, has everything ready for Jonathan, and Rose Ward, Dr. Ballard's pretty niece, to whom the young physician was greatly attracted when they met a few months previous, invites him to dinner the first night. Bill Lynd, a friend of Rose, drops in. Jonathan wonders if there is an understanding between them and the thought is most distasteful, for he had grown exceptionally fond of the young lady himself.

CHAPTER IX

Jonathan was seeing Rose almost every day. He had afternoon office hours and consultations "by appointment." To date no appointments had been made. When, as he opened occasionally, he had a call to make in the country, in the evening, he took Rose out with him. She was invaluable to him, he assured her; he could not get along without her. As for Mrs. Ward, she was a repository of family histories.

He went, on Mrs. Ward's suggestion, to her church, which was that of his own people, and met, in the pleasant informality of small town churches, a large part of the congregation. A number of people who had been patients of Doctor Ballard eyed him with interest and asked him professional questions out on the church steps. "It beats all," he told Rose on one occasion, "the amount of free advice people expect a doctor to hand out, during a social encounter. Yet they wouldn't dream of asking a lawyer—or would they?"

Evelina, who had no close relatives, did not take any stated days off. But now and then she put on her bonnet and announced that everything was in the ice box and she was taking the bus to this place or that to visit for a day and she hoped he'd get along without her. Thus he fell into the habit of going to the Wards on these occasions, especially since the day when Evelina, he had been struggling with a can opener in the kitchen and Rose put her head in the back door. Bill Lynd loomed large and genial behind her. "Here," she cried, advancing upon him, "as a surgeon of tinned sardines, you are hopeless. Better come home to supper with us."

Lynd had been very friendly. He lived with a married sister at the other end of town and during the first weeks Jonathan was his guest more than once. It was Lynd who advised him to join the Country Club. "Unless you have a yacht concealed somewhere, then you'd better join the Yacht Club. Or both," he suggested.

Jonathan shook his head. "I'm afraid it's too steep," he said regretfully. "The Country Club? Hundred a year. Sure it's steep, for a town of this size, greens fees and the rest not included. But it pays. Bring you plenty of patients pronto, especially if you play a good game. Not too good."

"I don't play at all," Jonathan confessed. "Haven't had time for it. Or bridge either." "You'd better learn," said Bill. They were sitting in his sister's kitchen and he opened a bottle of beer and splashed its contents into a tall glass. "Here put that under your belt and take heart. Sure, bridge, golf, tennis, and the bedside manner. Given these you'd be tops in no time." "No," said Jonathan, "I'll wait."

Can't afford to throw away a hundred bucks just now, to say nothing of buying sticks—" "Clubs," corrected Bill, in horror.

"Well, what you call 'em." It was the middle of November and they had already experienced their first snowfall of the year. Bill said:

"Well, by summer anyway. Naturally you wouldn't gain anything now. Of course, a little skiing at Placid might do you no end of good."

"Yes, and break my neck. Why?" "Oh, when Sally Suifon honors us with her presence she's to be found thereabouts. House parties and such. She's in town now, by the way. Back from White Sulphur for the gathering of the clan at Thanksgiving. The rag said she was probably going to Palm Beach but not until after Christmas. There's a girl for you," said Bill reflectively. "For me?" asked Jonathan startled.

"Don't look so terrified. I spoke academically. She has what it takes . . . money, looks, spirit, youth, and—the disposition of an onery horse. At least so one hears," said Bill ungallantly. "She doesn't know I exist. I slapped her face once for her, when she was a little kid and I was a bigger one, and for a time there she was quite crazy about me. But she got over it. However, if you could get in with her crowd—"

Jonathan shook his head. "Don't think I want to," he said firmly. "You're no business man, Kim . . . Bill had fallen into the habit of his nickname easily enough. "What do you aim to do with your spare time?"

"There'll be plenty," said Jonathan. "I've no doubt." He grinned suddenly across the kitchen table. "Sounds silly, doesn't it," he asked, but I don't want to make a lot of money. A living, of course. I'm worth that. But I don't think of my profession in terms of money."

"What terms then?" asked Bill. "Service, I suppose," Jonathan answered, a little embarrassed. "That was my father's idea, and his father's before him . . ."

Bill yawned, stretching his great arms. "You may be right," he said, "but I dunno. Dog eat dog is the general motto around here. Not much stirring in the way of business for ambitious young men. Sutton and some of his friends have seen to that. They don't encourage ambitious young men; they'd make the town too commercial and, dear me, they just couldn't bear anything commercial!" His voice rose to an absurd falsetto. Then his face altered and hardened. He said, "I'd like to get out. Real estate's deadlier than a doornail. I do a little insurance on the side—very little . . . I would get out—if it weren't for the conditions and for—"

He stopped. Mentally Jonathan finished the sentence for him. "And for Rose Ward." Yet that meant that perhaps Bill had asked Rose if she would seek his fortune elsewhere with him and she had refused. What else could it mean, he thought, feeling extraordinarily pleased with his powers of deduction.

He had liked Rose Ward better than any girl he had ever known. And he knew her better than any girl he had ever met. He was it possible, he asked himself driving home that he had fallen in love with her? No, it wasn't possible, not to be a man of his temperament, not after one brief encounter in June and six weeks' companionship in the autumn. He was lonely, that was it, and she had been very kind. He hoped selfishly that she wouldn't marry Bill Lynd and leave Riverport. What would he do without her and without Bill, good egg that he was, for that matter.

A Banks Business

Progress and Prosperity in a Bank
Depend upon These Three Functions:

Deposits

consist of the sums placed in the bank for safekeeping by individuals and business firms. Savings and checking accounts provide the bulk of these deposits; interest, earned by other bank activities, is paid on savings accounts.

Loans

are the "business" of a bank; the interest paid by the borrower creates the income from which interest and deposits and the expenses of conducting the business are paid. Applications for loans must be carefully considered for the security of funds deposited with the bank.

Service

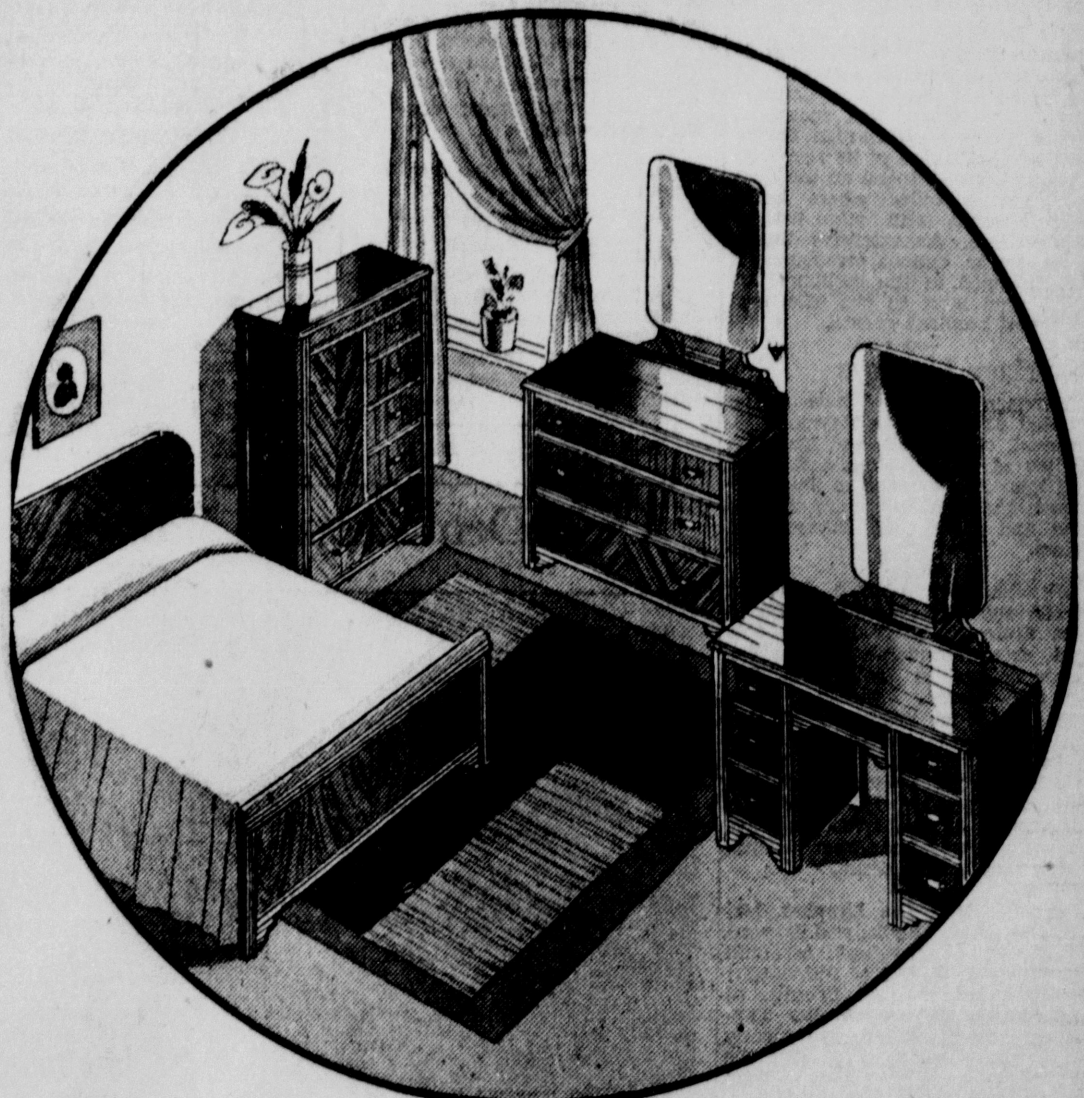

is represented by checking accounts, safe deposit boxes, commercial aids, foreign exchange and other activities that a bank is able to conduct through its experience and activities.

"THE HOUSE OF COPE" Presents THE MODERN BEDROOM

NATURALLY you want your bedroom to convey an impression of peace and repose. But whether you furnish it in modern style or use some of the lovely adaptations of period pieces depends entirely upon your individual taste.

A walk through the furniture displays of our store will furnish you with plenty of inspiration. You will see fine woods wrought with skillful craftsmanship into pieces of rare and enduring beauty. Pieces that you will be proud to own and to hand down to your children. For one of the outstanding characteristics of the new furniture is that it is soundly and substantially made. If the modern trend has done nothing else, at least it has re-established a regard for value and lasting worth in furniture. For it is a type of furniture that admits of no slighting in construction. Everything must be sound and substantial. See our complete display.

Fancy Frills for GALA EVENINGS

These Models Show How Lace and Chiffon Are Sharing Equal Popularity for Formal Affairs

By MARIE MAROT

SHARING equal popularity for evening wear are lace and chiffon, with both possessing in common the fluttery enchantment that makes lovely the gala evening. The model at right wears a clever shirred jacket above a long and flowing gown of chartreuse-tinted chiffon, a style complimentary to the striking page boy coiffure. The jacket is shirred to bands of matching taffeta and the shoulder straps are treated in the Greek fashion. And now we come to lace, as shown first in the center sketch. Fashioned in a cartwheel pattern, in beige, and decorated with a belt cluster of tawny peonies, the scalloped edges make this frock distinctive. Tiny buttons bedeck the bodice. Today's other lace, below, is in a black butterfly pattern, which smacks of the Spanish even without the pink cabbage rose corsage and swirling skirt. The hugemight jacket of lace, with its maline-edged cap sleeves, tops the gown's narrow shoulder straps.

PARSONS CASE WOMAN QUIZZED

Maid Discusses Farm Life Prior to Disappearance of Heir

viously had said Roy was the child of her first husband, who died in an automobile accident.

While reports spread that the heiress would be released soon in New York City, that a contact had been made with the kidnapers, and that the ransom had been paid, no signs of activity were apparent at the Stony Brook home.

The missing woman's husband, William H. Parsons, haggard and worn, went through the motions of caring for his squab farm, refusing all comment after he had twice applied for freedom from police supervision in attempts to contact his wife's possible abductors.

No Comment On Second Note

He refused to discuss reports that a second note had been received supplementing the one found under the cushions of his car, 18 hours after Mrs. Parsons disappeared. That message bluntly demanded $25,000 "or you will never speak to Alice again."

In contrast to Thursday night, when the Parsons home was ablaze with light, only the lower floor was illuminated last night and even there the shades were lowered. The driveway and grounds were empty of cars and officers.

Federal agents, on the surface at least, were remaining aloof, pending the result of family efforts to contact the kidnapers. After Parsons' appeal for freedom and the assurance of his brother-in-law, Richardson Pratt, executive of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, that the ransom would be available, the government men did nothing except quietly explore the countryside.

CLEVELAND — Police Captain Eugene Aufmuth rejected an assignment that would have made him the commander of all police strike details, because, he said, he didn't want to be "a public relations director."

Services In Our Churches

English Lutheran Church Will Have Program Sunday

A Children's day program will take the place of the regular morning worship service at the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow, the third Sunday after Trinity. Rev. George D. Keister, pastor, will also preach a sermonette on the subject, "A Dissatisfied Boy."

The offering taken at the Children's day program, which will be presented in the Sunday school rooms, will go to the orphan's home in Springfield.

Complete services for tomorrow and announcements are as follows: Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. Genesis 44:18-34. Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

"The world would be a better and more delightful place in which to live if there were more brotherly love in it. A large city in our nation was named with Greek words that mean 'brotherly love.' That is a worthy name. It is exceedingly more worthy that this spirit be found between members of the human race. The home should be the beginning of this spirit of kindness and consideration for each other. Then the narrow boundaries of the home must be only the beginning of this proper attitude toward each other. Brotherly love will not shrink from self-sacrifice. The world needs more of this spirit."

Children's day program at 10:30.

"The spirit of dissatisfaction is very common in people. It is well not to be so contented that there is no desire for improvement. However, some have reached the place in life where nothing pleases and nothing satisfies. 'Godliness with contentment is great gain.' I have learned in whatever state I am, 'contentment' to be content. It is well to learn that contentment is a state of mind rather than something dependent upon earthly conditions. We are that personified feeling."

"The twentieth anniversary celebration of the organization of Holy Trinity congregation will begin Sunday, June 20, with the celebration of the Sacrament of Holy Communion. On Friday, June 25, an historical pageant and fellowship meeting will be held. Sunday, June 27, the sermon in the morning will be preached by Rev. J. Paul Harman, a former pastor. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is. . . . He shall be as a tree planted by the waters, and that spreadeth out her roots by the river, and shall not see when heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green; and shall not be careful in the year of drought, neither shall she cease from yielding fruit" (Jeremiah 17:7, 8).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The divine mind that made man maintains His own image and likeness. . . . All that really exists is the divine Mind and its idea, and in this mind the entire being is found harmonious and eternal" (p. 151).

Alaska Drawing Increasing Number of Tourists

An increasing army of tourists is converging on Alaska this summer, eager to visit the picturesque cities and view its striking scenic beauties. One of the major factors contributing to Alaska's growing importance as a summer playground is the improved transportation. Planes and boats have been added to passenger schedules and hotel accommodations greatly improved.

Salem Chinas Check Up Fifth Win In Class A Softball Loop

Pottery Defeats Edison To Stay In Tie For Lead; News Beats Nobil Shoes

Three-Hit Pitching of Dale Ritchie Helps Chinas to Cop Fifth Win In Row; Miller, Jackson and Gregg End Slump as News Triumphs

The Salem Chinas continued along the victory trail in the Class A City Softball league on Saturday night, blanking the Ohio Edison, 10 to 0.

The three-hit pitching of Dale Ritchie and the heavy hitting of Earl May, 1935 batting champion of the senior circuit, Joe Kasso and Steve Zatzko enabled the Chinas to keep their record unmarred and remain in a tie for the league leadership with the Old Timers, who have won four games and lost none.

The Chinas went to the front in the first inning of the contest with three runs, then relied on Ritchie to defend their lead while they pushed other runs across the plate in the third and sixth frames. All told, the Pottery batsmen hammered Pitcher Lee Christen of the Ohio Edison for 12 hits.

It was the Edisonites' fourth consecutive defeat in as many games in the senior circuit.

The triumph adds proof to the fact that the Chinas are the team to beat for the first round championship. The Pottery stars have displayed plenty of punch in all of their games and need only three more wins to be assured of the round title.

The other Class A game last evening saw three Salem News players, Clyde ("Wink") Miller, Jim Jackson and Ralph Gregg, pull out of batting slumps as the News triumphed over Nobil Shoes, 19 to 4, in five innings.

Miller, Jackson and Gregg had all gone hitless until last evening, when they found the offerings of Pitcher Joe King of Nobil's to their liking and consequently pounded him for five of the 12 hits collected by the News batters. Miller and Gregg each got two bingles, while Jackson collected one.

With Gregg doing good work on the mound by limiting the Shoemans to six safe blows and striking out 12 batters, the Newsies scored in every one of the five frames to gain their third win in seven games. The "paper boys" had their biggest spree in the second and third innings when they tallied six and five runs, respectively.

Nobil's playing with only eight men, turned its six hits into four runs, three of which were made in the fourth frame and one in the third set.

Only one game was played in the Class B league last evening with the Baptists whipping the Columbians, 7 to 3, in this contest. The other scheduled Class B tilt between the Emmanuel Lutherans and Methodists was won by the Emmanuel on a forfeit.

The Baptist-Columbian contest went into two extra innings before the 3-3 tie in effect at the end of the regulation seven frames was broken. The Baptists pounded out four runs in the ninth frame to break the deadlock and cop the decision.

Lynn Bailey went the full nine innings on the mound for the Baptists, allowing six hits, while Gabby Guapone, pitching the entire route for the Columbians, gave up 10 safe blows.

The forfeit victory gained by the Emmanuel when the Methodists failed to appear was their sixth straight and kept them out in front in the Class B league.

FOUR-WAY TIE FOR FIRST IN OPEN TOURNEY

Thomson, Dudley, Walsh and Guldahl Deadlocked for Lead

By FRITZ HOWELL.
BIRMINGHAM, Mich., June 12.—Goldfom hoped to crown the new American open champion today, with a burst of par-cracking fireworks, but so many heirs apparent were on hand that there was a good chance the coronation would be delayed until Sunday.

Sixty-five of the nation's sharpshooters teed off for the 36-hole stretch which completes the regulation 72-hole test, starting at 8:15 a. m. (EST) over the bunkered battle ground of Oakland Hills.

They survived the two-day scoring spree that eliminated 101 of the original starters and developed one of the closest contests in the 41-year-history of the tournament. Ten par-breakers were grouped in two sections, only two shots apart, in a wide open scramble for the laurels won a year ago at Baltusrol by Tony Manero.

Leading the chase for Manero's crown, along with a crack at Tony's record 282 total, were Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee-on-Deleware, Pa., big Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, and Frank Walsh and Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, all with subpar totals of 140 at the half way mark.

As a prelude to the final barrage, Thomson yesterday fired a 67 that beat par by six shots, clipped three strokes off the Oakland Hills competitive record, and equalled the all-time low for a single round in the open championship. Guldahl, on his way to a second round 69, shot the outgoing half in 32 for another record performance.

Two strokes off the pace, at 142, were Frankie Strafaci, the 21-year-old publicans star from Brooklyn, Pat Sawyer, Minneapolis pro, and the pre-tournament choices, Harry Cooper of Chicago and Stammin' Sam Snead, the West Virginian. Cooper and Snead remained "hot" in the betting books, with "Light Horse Harry" riding hard in the quest for a title that has been just escaping his grasp for a decade.

Also under par, with 143, were Johnny Goodman, the Omaha amateur who won the open in 1933, and Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., who provided one of the "picture shots" yesterday by sinking a 60-foot putt with a mud-covered ball on the 16th, or "lake hole".

12 COLTS AWAIT LATONIA DERBY

Heefly and Mars' Entries Are Favorites In $15,000 Race

COVINGTON, Ky., June 12. — A dozen of the best three-year-olds in the nation awaited today the flying of the barrier for the start of the $15,000 Latonia derby.

A weather prediction of "fair and warmer" and a fast track brought odds on Heefly, a Kentucky derby "also ran" to the same 3-1 position enjoyed by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' entry, "The Mars' Milky Way" stable combination is Reaping Reward, Kentucky derby show-money horse, and Military, an "also ran" in the Churchill Downs classic.

Grounds Superintendent Charles A. Nolte said the track would be fast enough by race time (approximately 5 p. m. E. S. T.) for the thoroughbreds to do the first mile in 1:38.

Tractors, work horses and maintenance men worked far into the night harrowing the track. Work was resumed at dawn.

Mrs. W. H. Furst, daughter of Mrs. Mars and a newcomer to the racing game, was hopeful of her entry. Over the Top, a son of Man O' War and a half brother of War Admiral. She predicted her horse would beat both her mother's colts.

Although Heefly, a Texas owned horse, was badly beaten in the Kentucky Derby, his western backers declare he has greatly improved and has shown excellent form at the Latonia track.

Mrs. Furst's colt was quoted at 6-1 odds in early wagering along with John Hay Whitney's Flying Scot, the East's lone entry, and Valinda farm stable's Eagle Pass.

year-old strategist who was vice commissar for defense until a month ago. Six generals and president of the dread court were also judges.

Announcement Is Curt

A curt communique said: "The court has established that the accused were in the service of the military service of a foreign state carrying on an unfriendly policy toward the U. S. S. R.; that they have systematically supplied military circles of the country with spy information; carried on wrecking action in order to break the power of the workers' and peasants' Red army, and in case of a military attack on the U. S. S. R. to prepare for the defeat of the U. S. S. R.; that they aimed to aid the disorganization of the U. S. S. R. and the restoration of landlords and capitalists in the U. S. S. R."

It was generally understood the unnamed foreign power was either Germany or Japan. Previous trials have accused the defendants of conspiring to deliver Soviet Russia into the hands of both those neighboring powers.

The court announced all eight confessed their guilt.

The official statement charged the late General Jan Gamarnik, former vice commissar of defense, with equal guilt. He was reported

STEEL WALKOUT HITS BETHLEHEM

Republic and SWOC Unable to Agree on Gov. Davey's Program

all the time we wanted to present our side," Voss commented.

Willing To Wait

Union representatives Philip Murray, national SWOC chairman, and John Owens, Ohio CIO director—insisted, meanwhile, on a contract. "We are not going to walk out—we are willing to wait for days," a union spokesman said.

The proposal that the SWOC be recognized in a contract for its members only was virtually identical to the agreement signed with the SWOC several months ago by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co., subsidiary of the U. S. Steel Corp., which is the nation's largest producer.

"We have refused to sign the Carnegie-Illinois contract and we won't sign it," Tom M. Girdler, Republic's board chairman, declared at a press conference a week after the strike started. The other two concerns involved constantly have expressed similar refusals. Inland was not represented at Governor Davey's conference since it has no Ohio plants.

Michigan's governor, Frank Murphy, announced he would meet in Detroit with CIO leaders and city officials of Monroe, Mich., to pave the way for a "peaceful" mass meeting at Monroe Sunday.

The demonstration was called by Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, who asked CIO unions in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio to assemble in troubled Monroe for a "gigantic mass meeting" to protest routing of a picket line of striking CIO steel workers at a Republic steel subsidiary Thursday night.

Cara of Cambridge, who received three-twentieth share each, and a niece, Blanch Milligan of Columbus, O., who received a one-twentieth share.

Theater Attractions

The Three Marx brothers in "A Day at the Races", showing Sunday through Tuesday, at the State theater.

The three daffy comedians, the Marx brothers, open the week's program at the State in "A Day at the Races," which will be seen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The usual involved hilarious plot, plus clever music and dialogue, make the film the best Marx picture yet produced. In addition to Groucho, Chico and Harpo, the film has Allan Jones and Maureen O'Sullivan in romantic roles, Douglas Dumbrie, Esther Muir, Sig Ruman and others.

Buys Race Horse

Miss O'Sullivan, who is trying to make her late father's sanatorium pay, is angry with her sweetheart, Allan Jones, who used all the money he had saved to study voice to buy a race horse.

Groucho as a fake doctor and Chico and Harpo, who work at the race track near the sanatorium, become involved in the plot when the doctor arrives to put the sanatorium on its feet and the other two try to help Jones win Miss O'Sullivan.

The picture is good comedy done in the typical Marx manner. A double bill will show Wednesday and Thursday at the State including "The Go-Getter," featuring Anita Louise and George Brent in a comedy romance; and a real mystery thriller, "The Thirteenth Chair," with Dame May Whitty (seen recently here in "Night Must Fall"), Madge Evans, Thomas Beck, Elissa Landi, Lewis Stone and others.

Following the double program comes the latest Jane Withers picture, "Angel's Holiday." Playing with the child star are Robert Kent and Sally Blane, with Joan Davis, new screen comedian whose antics are bringing her to feature billing rapidly. "Angel's Holiday" runs through Friday and Saturday at the State.

Concluding tonight at the State is the very well reviewed "They Gave Him a Gun," with Spencer Tracy, Gladys George and Franchot Tone.

At The Grand

"Park Avenue Logger" starring George O'Brien and Beatrice Roberts, and "Let Them Live" with John Howard ("Lost Horizon") and Nan Grey ("Three Smart Girls"), will be offered Sunday through Tuesday at the Grand.

The Grand's second double bill of the week is a Philo Vance mystery story, "Night of Mystery" featuring Grant Richards, Roscoe Karns, Helen Burgess, Harvey Stephens, Ruth Coleman and June Martel, and "You Can't Buy Luck," top billing Onslow Stevens, Helen Mack, Vinton Haworth and Maxine Jennings. The pictures will be the attraction at the Grand Wednesday and Thursday.

"Reckless Ranger," with Bob Allen in the title role, will show at the Grand Friday and Saturday. Louise Small is the feminine interest.

Buck Jones, ace western player, in "Smoke Tree Range" will be seen for the last times tonight at the Grand.
